Devolution of Powers

- Road and Street Works are critical to delivering the Government's agenda including new infrastructure and essential services to new homes and businesses
- They are key enablers for improving economic productivity and quality of life

- Utilities, Highway Authorities and their contractor partners must deliver greater collaboration, higher quality and embrace innovation in order to reduce congestion and impacts on all road users
- Disproportionate and inconsistent costs and compliance burdens make delivery harder and more expensive
- Government needs a co-ordinated approach to ensure that restrictions on road and street works do not constrain the timely delivery of infrastructure
